My Blog

It's the twenty eighth of December today and Christmas is over. 1 there is always such a wonderful time of the year although 2 there is so much to do – cleaning, cooking and shopping for food and presents. 3 it's very easy to forget that what counts is the true spirit of Christmas and not all the preparations. The weather on Christmas day was really good this year. 4 it was cold but sunny and 5 there were only a few clouds in the sky. After breakfast we went for a long walk and when we came back 6 there was a meal waiting for us. 7 It was delicious! My mother had spent two days preparing all the dishes. She always worries that 8 there is enough food for everybody and cooks too much. This year 9 there were ten of us altogether but she cooked for at least twenty. My father jokes that 10 it's a good idea to tell Mum that only half of the guests were coming!

5 Complete the gaps using appropriate modal verbs.

I often ask myself what skills are necessary to be a good writer. Do you have to (you) have a degree in literature or do a creative writing course? Is it absolutely necessary? Many people would probably say 'yes' but there are some who claim that you simply learn how to write. You either have a talent for writing or not. And if you don't, you forget about a professional writing career as quickly as possible. This sort of advice seem rather harsh but, on the other hand, I believe, people go on hoping to become successful writers if there are absolutely no grounds for it. Of course, everybody write stories or poems in their free time but it's probably best to accept the fact that for many of us it be a profession earning fame and fortune. The good news though is that you sell books and have a large readership to enjoy writing.

   My last job interview was very stressful. The interviewer first asked me if I had ever worked before. Then she was interested in why I had left my previous job and how I had heard about that vacancy. She also wanted to know how I saw myself in 10 years' time. I don't quite understand why she asked if I was married. The next question, though, was the toughest – she wanted to know how much I expected to earn.
   I think she liked my answers because finally she

   This is a true story _which_ was told by my best friend Mike Douglas. His father used to teach in our school. It happened at the time _when_ Mr Douglas was a trainee teacher and didn’t quite know how to go about teaching and maintaining discipline in the classroom. Many pupils took advantage of his inexperience _who_ made Mike’s father’s life really hard. One day Robert _who_ was the naughtiest boy in Year 6, decided to play a practical joke on poor Mr Douglas. When the teacher left the ICT suite _that_ they were having a Maths class, he asked everyone to turn all desks and chairs upside down. When Mr Douglas returned, all pupils were sitting on their chairs and working as if nothing had happened. Mr Douglas stood speechless for a minute and then started laughing. It was probably the situation _that_ helped him to relax and enjoy teaching more.

Anna has always been my best friend. We met at a concert in Warsaw, where we both studied law. It turned out that we belonged to the same student organisations and were interested in the same things. At the beginning of our friendship we agreed each other almost everything. We believed the same values and shared the same principles. That time I felt I had found my true soulmate. However, several years and many life experiences later we realized that we were very different each other. We both succeeded in life but in very different ways – I am a professional lawyer and Anna takes care of her husband and five children. We both dreamed of a happy life but we have realized this dream in different ways.

CHRISTIE’S BLOG

My mother has always been very concerned about my health. Last year I promised her to do something about it and decided to lead a more healthy lifestyle. The first thing I did was to stop smoking. It was not easy though. I tried to avoid giving friends who smoked but they seemed to be everywhere I went. My girlfriend did a great job by helping me to my decision. One day I was so desperate that I begged her to give me one cigarette but she refused. Some other day she caught me with a cigarette in my hand but didn’t let me smoke it into my mouth. It was all so embarrassing! I haven’t been smoking for two months now. I don’t enjoy people smoke but I wouldn’t like to join in.
