46 Ability and possibility can, could, be able to

1 can and other modal verbs

We use a modal verb with another verb to show that an action is possible, necessary or certain. We also use modal verbs to ask permission or to give advice.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Positive</th>
<th>NEGATIVE</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>I can swim. You must leave. She should go.</td>
<td>I cannot (can’t) dance. He must not (mustn’t) stop. We could not (couldn’t) leave.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Questions

- Can you speak French? (No, I can’t)
- Should they leave? (Yes, they should)
- What can you do? Where should we go?

Modal verbs (can, could, may, might, should, must, would, will and shall) are different from other verbs.

- We use them + infinitive without to:
  - ✗ You can to use it anywhere.  ✓ You can use it anywhere.
- They have the same form for all subjects:
  - ✗ My brother cans swim.  ✓ My brother can swim.
- We form negatives with not or n’t (not doesn’t or don’t):
  - ✗ I don’t can speak Japanese.  ✓ I can’t speak Japanese.
- We put the modal verb in front of the subject for questions. We don’t use do/does/did:
  - ✗ Does she can play tennis?  ✓ Can she play tennis?
- They don’t have infinitive or -ing forms. If we need to use an infinitive or -ing form, we use a form with a similar meaning, e.g. for can we use be able to:
  - ✗ I want to can play the guitar.  ✓ I want to be able to play the guitar.
- They don’t have participle (-ed, -ing) forms, so we can’t make continuous or perfect tenses with them. Instead we change the main verb:
  - They can’t be waiting for us.  They can’t have used it yet.

‘Modal perfects’, e.g. He must have done it. ➤ Units 51.3 and 84.1

- We can make modals passive. We use a modal verb + a form of be + past participle
  ➤ Unit 84.1: Members can use this car park. ➔ This car park can be used by members.

2 can for present ability and possibility

We use can or be able to to say that it is possible to do something, or that somebody/something has an ability to do something:

You can use this phone anywhere in the world. Can you speak Japanese?

We usually pronounce can as /kæn/ in statements and Wh- questions:

Karl can speak Japanese. When can we play tennis?

We sometimes use the strong form /kæn/ in yes/no questions and always in short answers:

Can Karl play tennis? Yes, he can.

The negative can’t is /kænt/ in most varieties of British English: I can’t read music.

Pronunciation ➤ 1.22

Conversation

CATHY That’s a smart new phone. Does it work in the USA?

TIM Yes, you can use it anywhere in the world.

CATHY So I suppose you’ve got a new phone number …

TIM No. I was able to transfer my old number to the new phone.
• We use be able to when something is surprising or requires some effort:
  It’s amazing – some animals are able to sleep standing up!
  Because of her illness, Alice isn’t able to see visitors.
• We use can/can’t with verbs of the senses (e.g. see, hear, smell) and some verbs of thinking (e.g. believe, forget, remember) to describe an action happening now:
  I can smell something bad. Can you remember her name?
  I can’t believe this computer’s so slow!

If we are NOT sure if something is possible, we use may, might, etc. (➤ Units 47 and 48):
This phone might work in the USA, but I’m not sure.

3 Future ability and possibility
To talk about what we can do in the future we use these modals:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>

<tbody>
<tr>
<td>be able to</td>
<td>for situations that are certain</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>After you receive your password, you’ll be able to visit our new website.</td>

<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>If you learnt to sing, you’d be able to join the music group.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Second conditional  ➤ Unit 55

4 Past ability and possibility
To talk about past ability and possibility, we use could/couldn’t or was/were able to:
Before I got this job I couldn’t afford a car.
When I was young I was able to run for miles without getting tired.
Could the first cameras take colour photos?

But if we are making a positive statement about a single event in the past, or asking a question about it, we use was/were able to, NOT could:
I could transfer my old number. ✓ I was able to transfer my old number.

For negative statements we can use couldn’t or wasn’t/weren’t able to:
We weren’t able to get any cheap flights. We couldn’t get any cheap flights.

If something was particularly difficult, we can use managed to:
I washed it twice but I’m afraid I didn’t manage to get rid of that stain on your shirt.
We often use managed to with expressions like in the end, eventually and finally:
It took a while, but in the end we managed to find some cheap flights on the Internet.

5 General truths
We use can for something that is generally possible:
It can be very cold in New York in January. (= It is sometimes very cold.)
Life can be very hard for people on low incomes.
Bad weather can cause flight delays at any time.

We use could to talk about general truths in the past:
In the days of sailing ships it could take many months to travel across the Atlantic.

How technology has changed our lives …

Last week my wife suggested we should have a weekend break: Barcelona, or perhaps Prague. After a few minutes on my computer I (0) was able to / could book flights and a hotel, then print out airline tickets and a hotel voucher – all done in less than half an hour. Nothing surprising about that, you might say. But then I suddenly remembered how things were different when I was a child. If my parents wanted to go away they (1) can’t / couldn’t just use the Internet – because there was no Internet. Well, of course it existed, but ordinary people (2) couldn’t / weren’t able to use it; it was only used by a few universities and some government agencies.

No, they had to phone a travel agent or drive into town and go to a travel agency. It’s the same thing with phones. I remember once, when I was a teenager, going out with some friends and missing the last bus home. Of course, none of us had a mobile phone. So we spent hours searching for a phone box so we (3) could / can call for a taxi. Eventually we (4) could / managed to find one, but by then it was 2 a.m. and we were freezing cold.

In those days mobile phones were expensive luxury. Even if you had one, you (5) could only / were only able to use it in big cities because there was no signal in the countryside. And they were huge – not much smaller than a house brick. Now I have a phone that’s no bigger than a box of matches. And I (6) can / manage to phone anyone, anywhere in the world, any time I feel like it. It can even (7) using / be used to look at the Internet. *(8) Do you can / Can you imagine how exciting it was the first time an engineer managed (9) to make / making a phone small enough to put in your pocket? It must have been amazing. But I’m sure that in the future they (10) can / will be able to make them small enough to wear as a wristwatch!

Making a guess (1)

may, might, could, must, can’t, should

1 Making a guess about a present situation

When we are completely certain about something, we don’t use modal verbs:

The camera isn’t working because the battery hasn’t been charged.

But sometimes we make a guess. If we’re certain our guess is correct, we use must or can’t:

‘It must be the battery.’ ‘It can’t be that. I recharged it yesterday.’

Lucy’s just bought a new car – she must be earning plenty of money.

‘Is that Marina at the door?’ ‘It can’t be her, she’s on holiday.’

With this meaning, the opposite of must is can’t, NOT mustn’t:

I filled the petrol tank yesterday. × it mustn’t be empty. ✓ it can’t be empty.

Pronunciation ➤ 1.23

If we are less certain that our guess is correct we use may (not), might (not) or could:

It might be the memory card. Perhaps it’s full …

There could be life on other planets.

The manager may be in a meeting. I’ll just check for you.

Steve might not be living at home any more – I heard he was looking for a flat to rent.

We use may not or might not (not could not) if we are not sure about our guess:

✗ This small shop could not have batteries.

* ✓ This small shop might not have batteries. (= Perhaps they don’t have any batteries.)*

We don’t often ask people to guess with must, may or might. We prefer to use Could or Do you think?:

Could it be the battery? Do you think Jerry’s at home today?

2 Making a guess about the future

If we make a guess about the future, we use may (not), might (not) or could,

but NOT couldn’t:

If we wait for a few days, the prices might be cheaper.

I could get a part-time job next summer. The tickets may not arrive in time.

✗ The engineer could not be able to fix it. ✓ The engineer might not be able to fix it.

3 Expectations

When we expect something to be true, or have a strong feeling our guess is correct, we use should or shouldn’t:

You can phone Henry at work. He should be in the office by now.

Don’t take any food. There should be plenty to eat once you get there.

Allow half an hour to get through security at the airport – it shouldn’t take longer than that.

48 Making a guess (2)

must, might, could,
should + have

1 Past forms
The perfect form of modal verbs is modal verb + have + past participle:

| POSITIVE | I might have (might’ve*) seen him. You should have (should’ve) been there. She must have (must’ve) done it. |
| NEGATIVE | I cannot (can’t) have lost it. He might not (mightn’t) have stopped. We could not (couldn’t) have known.* |
| QUESTIONS | Could you have known? (No, I couldn’t have.) Should they have left? (Yes, they should have.) What could she have done? Where should we have gone? |

* In spoken English we sometimes use short forms, e.g. should’ve, shouldn’t’ve, mightn’t’ve, etc.

Pronunciation ➤ 1.24

There is also a continuous form, modal verb + have + been + -ing:
He must have been driving too fast. They couldn’t have been watching us.

2 Making a guess about a past situation
If we’re certain that our guess is correct we use must, can’t or couldn’t + have + past participle:
Everything’s pink! You must have put something red in the machine.
I can’t have. I always wash whites separately.
Lester couldn’t have been driving the car – he doesn’t even own a car!
If we are less certain, we use may (not), might (not) or could + have + past participle:
‘Where are the keys?’ ‘I don’t know; I may have left them in the car.’
‘Why isn’t Ali here yet?’ ‘I don’t know. Could he have forgotten the date?’
‘Why haven’t they phoned me back?’ ‘They might not have been getting their messages.’

We use mightn’t have + past participle, NOT couldn’t have + past participle, if we are not certain:
I’m not sure; ✓ I mightn’t have passed the exam. (= It’s possible that I haven’t passed it.) ✗ I couldn’t have passed the exam.

3 Expectations about the past
We can talk about things we expected to happen in the past with should + have + past participle:
Check the post. That letter should have arrived by now.
You’d better phone the hospital. They should have had the test results this morning.
We can also use this form for an action that was planned but didn’t happen:
We should have had our exam results last week, but they haven’t arrived yet.
I should have gone swimming last Friday but the pool was closed for repairs.
Note that was/were meant to or was/were supposed to have a similar meaning:
The plane was meant to leave at six but there was a mechanical problem.
I was supposed to send her my email address but I forgot.

<td>We had to buy a new TV. We didn’t have to pay. Did you have to get a visa?</td>
<td>You’ll have to leave soon. We won’t have to pay. Will she have to get a visa?</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

¹ Must is a modal verb. Have to and have got to are not modal verbs.

² Have got to is not the same as have got (➤ Unit 26.2).

NATURAL ENGLISH

We can ask questions with must, but it is more common to use have to:

Must we answer all the questions? → Do we have to answer all the questions?

2 Positive rules and necessary actions

We use have to to say that something is necessary, or is a rule:

The taxi’s here. We have to leave now. (necessary)

All car passengers have to wear a seat belt. (a rule)

Do I have to buy batteries? (Is it necessary?)

NATURAL ENGLISH

In informal British English we often use have got to. It means the same as have to.

We also use must but it is less common than have (got) to. We usually use must for

- a rule given by the speaker to another person, or to himself/herself:

  You must wear your coat; it’s cold outside. (parent to young child)

  I must lose some weight. (I think I should do this.)

- instructions (often in writing and with a passive verb):

  Answers must be written in ink. (exam instructions)

We don’t use must or have got to for past or future situations, we use forms of have to:

- PAST: We had to have visas to visit China last year.

- FUTURE: You’ll have to charge the battery before you can use it.

3 Negative rules

We use can’t or not allowed to to say that there is a rule NOT to do something:

You can’t smoke here. We’re not allowed to use calculators in the exam.

We can also use must not, but usually only for explaining rules and in instructions:

Remember, children, you mustn’t ride your bikes on the grass.

These lights must not be used outdoors.

To talk about negative rules in the past or future we use be allowed to (➤ Unit 52.3):

I wasn’t allowed to do that when I was a child. We won’t be allowed to check in until later.

⚠️ If there is NO rule to say something is necessary, we use don’t have to, NOT mustn’t.

Compare: You don’t have to eat in here, you can eat outside if you prefer. (You have a choice.)

You mustn’t eat in here. (You don’t have a choice. You have to eat somewhere else.)

FAQs

Setting up a broadband connection and wireless network in your home.

My wireless network is very slow and sometimes it doesn’t work. What can I do to improve it?

The most important thing is the position of your router (the machine that sends out the wireless signals). You (0) are allowed to / have to put it in the centre of the house. And it (1) mustn’t be / doesn’t have to be next to a TV or computer as they may interrupt the signals.

I’ve only got one phone line. (2) Do I have to / Must I have a second line for a broadband connection?

No, you (3) don’t have to / mustn’t have a separate phone line, you can use one line.

I don’t have a phone line in my house but my neighbour’s phone line runs across the front of my house. (4) Am I allowed to / Have I got to use his line for my Internet connection?

No. You (5) don’t have to / aren’t allowed to use somebody else’s phone line; it’s illegal! In any case, it wouldn’t work. You will (6) must / have to get your own phone line, I’m afraid.

Is it true that (7) you have to / it must be to set up a special password?

No, you (8) haven’t got to / don’t have to set up a password for your router, but it is a good idea to do so, as it will prevent other people using your connection.

need, needn’t, don’t have to/need to

1. need as a modal, need to

Need can be a modal verb (➤ Unit 46), but the only modal forms that we use are needn’t and needn’t + have + past participle:

You needn’t leave yet, it’s early. You needn’t have done that report.

We generally prefer to use need to, which is a regular verb, with the usual verb changes:

You need to leave now. Do I need to buy batteries?

She does not (doesn’t) need to do it. We didn’t need to charge the battery.

need + -ing/infinitive  ➤ Units 67.4 and 85.4

2. Necessary actions

We can use need to

- to say that something is physically necessary: I’m tired. I need to get some sleep.
- when we believe that something is necessary or important: He really needs to lose weight.
- to mean have to (➤ Unit 49): You need to score 60% to pass the exam.

Past Jane’s condition was quite serious. She needed to stay in the hospital overnight.

Future You’ll need to get some photos for this passport application.

3. Unnecessary actions, present and future

We use needn’t/don’t need to, don’t have to or haven’t got to to say that something isn’t necessary or isn’t a rule:

You needn’t take any food – lunch is provided. (It isn’t necessary.)
You don’t need to buy a battery – it already has one.

Men don’t have to do military service in Britain. (It isn’t a rule.)

There’s no rush. We haven’t got to leave yet.

We use won’t need to or won’t have to for unnecessary future actions:

You won’t need to bring any extra money on Friday, everything is included in the price.
I won’t have to wait for long; the bus comes every ten minutes.

4. Unnecessary actions in the past

We use didn’t need to or didn’t have to to say that something wasn’t necessary in the past.

We don’t know if the action happened or not:

The pain went away so I didn’t need to see a doctor. We didn’t have to pay – it was free.

We use needn’t + have + past participle to say that an action happened in the past although it wasn’t necessary:

You needn’t have brought a camera. You can use mine.
You needn’t have gone to a photographer’s. There’s a photo machine at the station.

Compare:

Carol needn’t have taken a towel. The gym provides them free of charge.
(Carl took a towel but it wasn’t necessary.)

Carol didn’t need to take a towel. The gym provides them free of charge.
(We don’t know whether Carol took a towel or not.)

51 Advice and criticism

should, ought to, must, had better

1 Forms

Must and should are modal verbs (► Unit 46.1): You should see a doctor.
We can also use the perfect form should (not) + have + past participle (► Unit 48.1):
We should have (should’ve) bought it. Should we have left?
We should not (shouldn’t) have done.

Ought to and had better have this word order:
I ought to go. I ought not to go.* Ought I to go?
I had better go. I had better not go. Had I better go?*
* We don’t usually use these forms in spoken English.

In Natural English we usually use short forms of had better and should have in spoken English:
You’d better look at the instruction book. We shouldn’t’ve spent all our money!

2 Advice and warnings

We use should/shouldn’t and ought to/ought not to if we think something is a good or bad idea in general, and to give advice in a particular situation:
People shouldn’t smoke indoors. You look terrible – you ought to see a doctor.
We usually use should to ask for advice:
Should I ask my boss for a pay rise?
We can use must or mustn’t to give strong advice and warnings. It is stronger than should or ought to:
You must try this cake – it’s delicious! I really must lose some weight!
We mustn’t forget to take our passports. You mustn’t swim there, it’s dangerous.
We use had better (not) to give advice and warnings in a particular situation.
It usually means ‘if you don’t do/do this, something bad will happen’:
You’d better check the train times first. (If you don’t do this, your journey might be difficult.)
That looks hot. You’d better not touch it. (If you touch it, you might get burnt.)

We don’t use had better (not) to give general advice:
✗ People had better not smoke indoors. ✓ People shouldn’t smoke indoors.

In Natural English in conversation, we often use I (don’t) think and do you think with should/ought to: It’s expensive. I don’t think we should buy it. (= We shouldn’t buy it.)
Do you think I ought to wear a suit to the interview?

3 Criticism and regrets about the past

We can use should/shouldn’t + have + past participle to criticise someone’s past actions:
You should have done more revision. You shouldn’t have bought such a cheap machine!
We also use should/shouldn’t have + past participle to express regret for a past action:
I should have phoned you but I was busy. I shouldn’t have shouted at you. I’m sorry.

We don’t use must have or had better to express regret or criticism:
✗ You must have phoned me. ✓ You’d better phoned me. ✓ You should have phoned me.

1 Asking for and giving/refusing permission

<table>
<thead>

<tbody>
<tr>
<td>• we use can in most situations, but if we need to be polite, or if we think permission will be refused, we use may, could or might. Might is the most formal.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>May I leave early today? (to your boss) Could we stay an extra night? (to a hotel clerk)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Might I ask a question? (in a formal business meeting)</td>

<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do you mind if I open the window? Is it all right if I use your bathroom? Is it OK to bring a friend?</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

When we refuse permission we often give a reason:
‘Can we park here?’ ‘No, I’m sorry. It’s only for hotel guests.’

We don’t use could or might when we give or refuse permission:
- Could I use your bathroom?
  - ✗ Yes, you could.
  - ✗ No, you couldn’t.
  - ✗ Yes, you might.
- Might I ask a question?
  - ✓ Yes, you can.
  - ✓ No, you can’t.

2 Permission in rules and laws

We use can/can’t or be (not) allowed to when we talk about permission in rules and laws:
- In the USA you can turn right at a red traffic light.
- You can’t ride a motorbike without a helmet in the UK.
- Are we allowed to take photos in the museum?
- Passengers aren’t allowed to use electronic devices during take-off.

We can also use may/may not to describe rules in written instructions:
- Passengers may use electronic devices once the seat belt signs have been switched off.

3 Permission in the past and future

To talk about permission in the past, we use could/couldn’t or was/were allowed to:
- In the 1960s you could drive without a seat belt.
- You couldn’t wear jeans at my old school.
- I was allowed to stay up quite late when I was young.
- In the nineteenth century women weren’t allowed to vote in elections.

But to talk about permission for a single action in the past, we use allowed to, not could:
- ✗ We could go home early last Friday.
  ✓ We were allowed to go home early last Friday.

We can use will/won’t be allowed to to talk about permission at a time in the future:
- After you complete the training, you’ll be allowed to use the equipment on your own.
  The play starts at eight o’clock. You won’t be allowed to enter the theatre after that.

Requests and suggestions; offers, promises, and warnings can, could, would, will, shall

1 Requests

We use can to make requests in most situations:

Can you help me with these bags? Yes, of course (I can).

We usually add please to requests to make them polite:

Can we have two coffees, please? Certainly/Sure.

We put please in front of the verb to make a request stronger:

Can we please have a menu? Would you please be quiet?

We often use will you with people we know well:

Will you give me a hand with this?

FORMALITY CHECK We use could or would for more polite or formal requests:

Excuse me. Could you help me with this? (in a shop)

Would you sign this form? (talking to a customer in a bank)

But we don’t use could or would to reply to requests:

‘Would you help me?’  ✗ ‘Yes, I would.’ ✓ ‘Yes, of course.’

2 Suggestions

SUGGESTIONS AS STATEMENTS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>We/You could</th>
<th>watch</th>
<th>a DVD.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Let’s</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

SUGGESTIONS AS QUESTIONS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Why don’t we watch</th>
<th>a DVD?</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Shall/Should we</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>How/What about</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>watching</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

We often use we/you could and should we when we are not sure that the listener will like the suggestion. ‘We could try that new Japanese restaurant.’

We can agree or disagree with the suggestion. If we disagree, we usually give a reason:

‘Shall we get a pizza?’ ‘Yes, let’s do that. / That’s a good idea. / Great.’

‘How about meeting up for coffee on Sunday?’ ‘Oh, I can’t. / I’m really busy. / I’m sorry.’

3 will for offers, promises, warnings

| to agree                  | ‘Will you sign this for me?’ ‘Yes, I will.’ (X ‘Yes, I’ll.’)
|                          | ‘Will you have some more cake?’ ‘No, thanks, I won’t. I’m on a diet.’ |
| to offer or promise to do something | We’ll drive you to the station if you like. We won’t forget how kind you’ve been to us. |
| to say if someone else agrees or is able to do something (or not) | Take it to Marco – he’ll fix it for you. Ask my teacher about it – she’ll help you. Don’t ask Carol. She won’t know the answer. |
| promises/warnings         | I’ll be with you in a minute. Don’t touch the cooker – you’ll get burnt. |

We can also make offers with shall I/we or I/we could. We use these forms when we are not sure that the listener will want to accept:

‘Shall we help you with that?’ ‘No, thanks. I can manage on my own.’

I could get Lucy’s present for you.’ ‘That’s kind of you, but I’d rather do it myself.’

We don’t use the present simple to make offers:

‘My hair’s wet.’  X ‘I get you a towel.’ ✓ ‘I’ll get you a towel.’ ✓ ‘Shall I get you a towel?’

• You (5) ........ wear special clothes when you are on the dry ski slope, but we recommend that you wear strong gloves as the surface of the slope can easily burn your hands if you fall. Because of safety regulations, children under the age of sixteen (6) ........ wear protective helmets.
• Most dry ski slopes have a café or restaurant so you (7) ........ to bring your own food or drinks. But remember that food and drinks (8) ........ be taken onto the ski slope at any time, because of the risk of accidents.
